

I strongly urge the FCC to continue regulating broadband service. Telecommunication companies such as BellSouth, Verizon, Qwest, SBC and others must continue to be subject to regulatory review of broadband access and pricing to independent internet service providers (ISPs). Failure to regulate will cause ISPs to individually negotiate pricing, resulting in higher prices for customers and drastically lessened consumer choice. I strongly value my relationship with my local ISP (Sonic.net). I don't want that relationship threatened due to a lack of FCC regulation. Thank you.
